As a victim of sexual abuse in detention, you can expect that:

- you can decide whether or not you report
- staff will treat you with respect when you report
- you have the right to be free from retaliation
- you will be housed appropriately for your safety
- you may request to speak with mental health staff
- you may ask for a victim advocate to accompany and support you through any forensic medical examination or the investigatory process
- you can receive emotional support, crisis intervention, victim/survivor advocacy, information, and referrals from a community-based rape crisis program
- you will get answers to your questions about what will happen if you report and how to get medical care related to sexual victimization

If you choose to make a report, you will be provided with the New York State Sexual Assault Victim Bill of Rights. If you would like a copy, ask your facility ADS PREA Compliance Manager.

The 777-speed dial will connect you to the Department's statewide rape crisis and sexual assault hotline provider. This number does not have to be on your approved telephone list. Dial 777 instead of a standard phone number. The hotline will provide counseling and a referral for emotional support and victim advocacy services. You do not need to make a report to use 777.

Your conversation with a rape crisis counselor about sexual victimization is confidential. The rape crisis counselor is only allowed to talk about your conversation with DOCCS if you allow them to, if there is an immediate risk of harm to you or others, or when the victim is a child.

Calls to 777, PREA Centers, and staff assisted "legal" calls with RCPs are not monitored by facility staff and are confidential. However, calls placed on the incarcerated telephone system, including 777 calls, are recorded and available to OSI in the event of misuse, and may be used in a disciplinary or criminal proceeding. Callers who commit misconduct or harass hotline operators may be disciplined.

You can add a telephone number for a specific RCP to your telephone list at any time. Submit a request to your assigned ORC under Directive #4423. Toll-free telephone numbers (800, 888, 877, 866 and 855) cannot be used on the self-dial telephone system.
